We provide a personal opportunity for you to discuss your career development issues on a one-to-one basis together with an experienced, professional coach.

Conducted in confidence at a time that is convenient for you, either at our offices or at venue near to you, our career coaching sessions will allow you to set and achieve your career and life goals.

Normally focused around issues of career development and career choices and linked to personal profiling and psychometric feedback, one to one coaching takes place over an agreed period. During this time we help you set your own development goals and provide impartial advice and feedback in achieving them.

One to one coaching can help you:

- Discuss your current career situation and options
- Identify your areas of potential using career and psychometric profiling
- Develop a plan of action to develop your career
- Identify how to effectively seek help from others and utilise your available resources to achieve your career goals
- Have the confidence and motivation to establish the career that is best for you
